Perception Audit – Summary

Oct 5, 2026 · @Gren

Who I asked

Five people answered: my grandma, grandpa, mom, girlfriend, and a friend who knows me only online. Four answered in Estonian; quotes below are my translations. Nobody from school or work answered yet, so this is mostly the "personal" view of me.

Top patterns

1. Fast thinker under pressure (5/5). Quick reactions "in life and in sport" (grandma), quick calculating (grandpa), quickly finding clever solutions (mom), solving problems fast while staying calm (girlfriend), adapting faster than most people (online friend). Four of five named this as my #1 superpower.
2. Dependable (4/5). "Never leaves you in trouble" (grandma), "can always be counted on" (mom), keeps promises and trustworthy (girlfriend), "quite dependable" (online friend).
3. Driven and competitive (4/5). Determined, decisive, "winner's mentality", "never gives up", competitive.
4. Team player (4/5). Every "who benefits" answer pointed to a team: one that builds something new, brainstorms, needs good ideas, or needs someone to rely on. Grandma said I could lead one.
5. Friendly, honest, few words (5/5 friendly). Direct and to the point, "less talk, more action", with humour mixed in.

Surprise

My girlfriend's answer for superpower was caring, not speed: I put the people close to me above myself and make them feel valued. Everyone else described what I do; she described how I make people feel. That warmer side is missing from how I usually present myself.

Dissonance

Quiet or charismatic? My grandparents see me as a person of few words, while my online friend calls me charismatic and grandpa calls me sociable. My girlfriend even lists both "modest" and "self-confident". I see myself as [my own view here], so the gap is: [where it differs].

My 3 essence words

Dependable · Quick-thinking · Driven

Each was named by at least four of five people, in different words.

Next week

I'll rewrite my LinkedIn headline and About section around these three words, using one real example of solving a problem fast under pressure (from sport). I'll also send the same 7 questions to two classmates to test whether the people who know me from school see the same thing.

By prompt

Prompt	Common themes	Notable quote	What I'll do with this
Strengths	Determined, good at calculating, honest, considerate	"Good sense of reality" (grandma)	Lead with judgement and reliability, not just talent
Superpower	Speed: reacting, calculating, solving, adapting	"Adapts faster than most people" (online friend)	Make this my headline strength
Essence	Grounded, direct, fair, competitive	"Both feet on the ground" (grandma)	Keep messaging plain and concrete
Comm. style	Friendly, honest, direct, few words, humour	"Less talk, more action" (grandpa)	Short, direct posts with a light touch
Intro to client	Reliable teammate, good ideas, stays calm	"Gren has a fighter's spirit" (mom)	Use "reliable teammate" in my bio

Prompt	Common themes	Notable quote	What I'll do with this
Who benefits	Teams building something new or needing ideas	"Could lead a team very well" (grandma)	Look for team and project-lead roles
